

Canyon Creek is ISO-Certified

ISO refers to the International Organization for Standardization, founded in 1946 to develop a common set of manufacturing, trade and communication standards. Over the years, this global program has become one of the most recognized set of standards in the world.

As Canyon Creek Cabinet Company grew, the need for consistent and ongoing documentation of manufacturing processes and quality standards became extremely important to help maintain consistency and drive product improvement. Because the ISO system is a proven means to achieve these goals, Canyon Creek decided to adopt the standards of this internationally acclaimed organization.

In September of 2003, Canyon Creek Cabinet Company's quality management system was certified to the ISO 9001 standard. By joining the select group of U.S. manufacturers who are ISO-Certified, Canyon Creek Cabinet Company is required to pass regularly scheduled audits of its processes and procedures.

As our ISO Certification continues to mature, you will benefit from our ongoing efforts to improve quality and product consistency.
